Balancing designer Alyssa Coletti's vision with true woodworking mastery, the Figure collection is rooted the dialogue between material and craft. It brings focus to the textural warmth and graceful forms that are achievable only with real wood.

Figure's wood conference tables and sideboards blend a sense of significance with empathetic hospitality. Their sculptural forms inflect a purposeful presence, with rounded contours that soften the edges of the office.

with figure, the conference room becomes a venue for connection

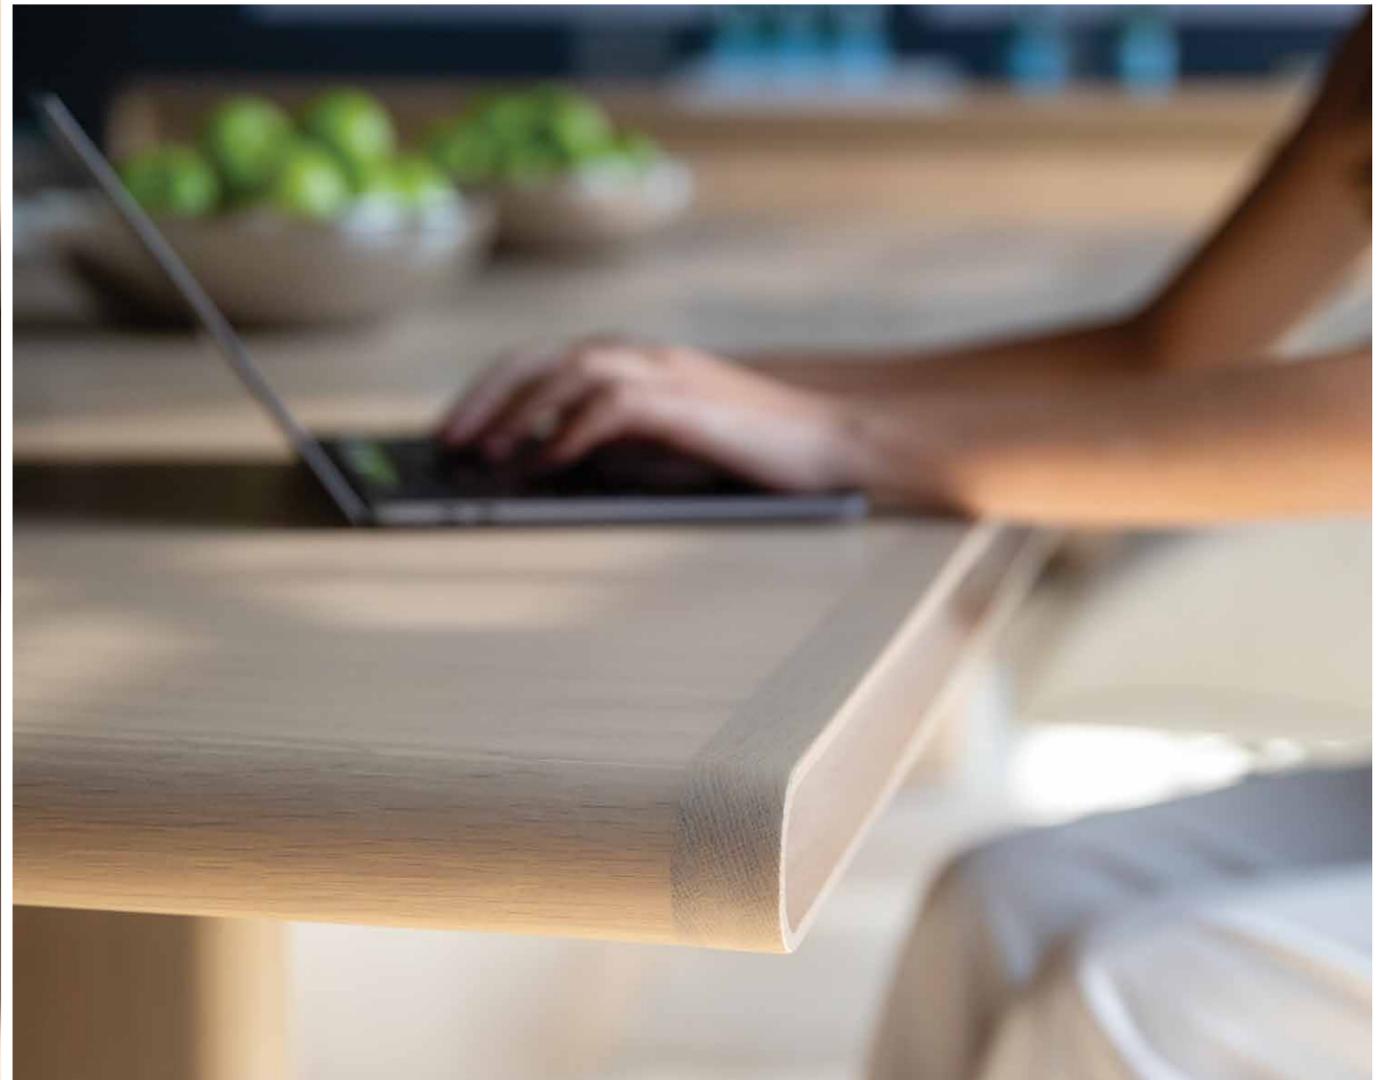

Figure anchors a room in confident capability: The organic warmth of real wood affirms an authentic approach. A comprehensive assortment of shapes and sizes allows tables to be scaled to their intended environment. Thoughtful, intentional power integration fuses seamlessly into both the modern workflow and the design's aesthetic.

a singular design language

Figure's design language is singularly focused, yet fluid. Its narrative leads with graceful lines, softened edges, and defined framing details. Gentle geometric form anchors each piece.

“All forms and surfaces of Figure are designed to comfortably draw people together. The diagonal elements directionally pull everyone to the table. The gentle curve of the rounded corners encourages tactile interaction. The collection’s intent is warm and welcoming, while acting as the central focus of an important and ordered space.”

an intuitive landmark for gathering

Naturally suited to formal meeting spaces, Figure's welcoming character bridges into casual and collaborative applications. This could mean standing as a grounding centerpiece in an open area that blends lounge pieces with a flexible work zone, or serving in place of the traditional desk as a relaxed yet elegant work table in a private executive office.

precision craftsmanship

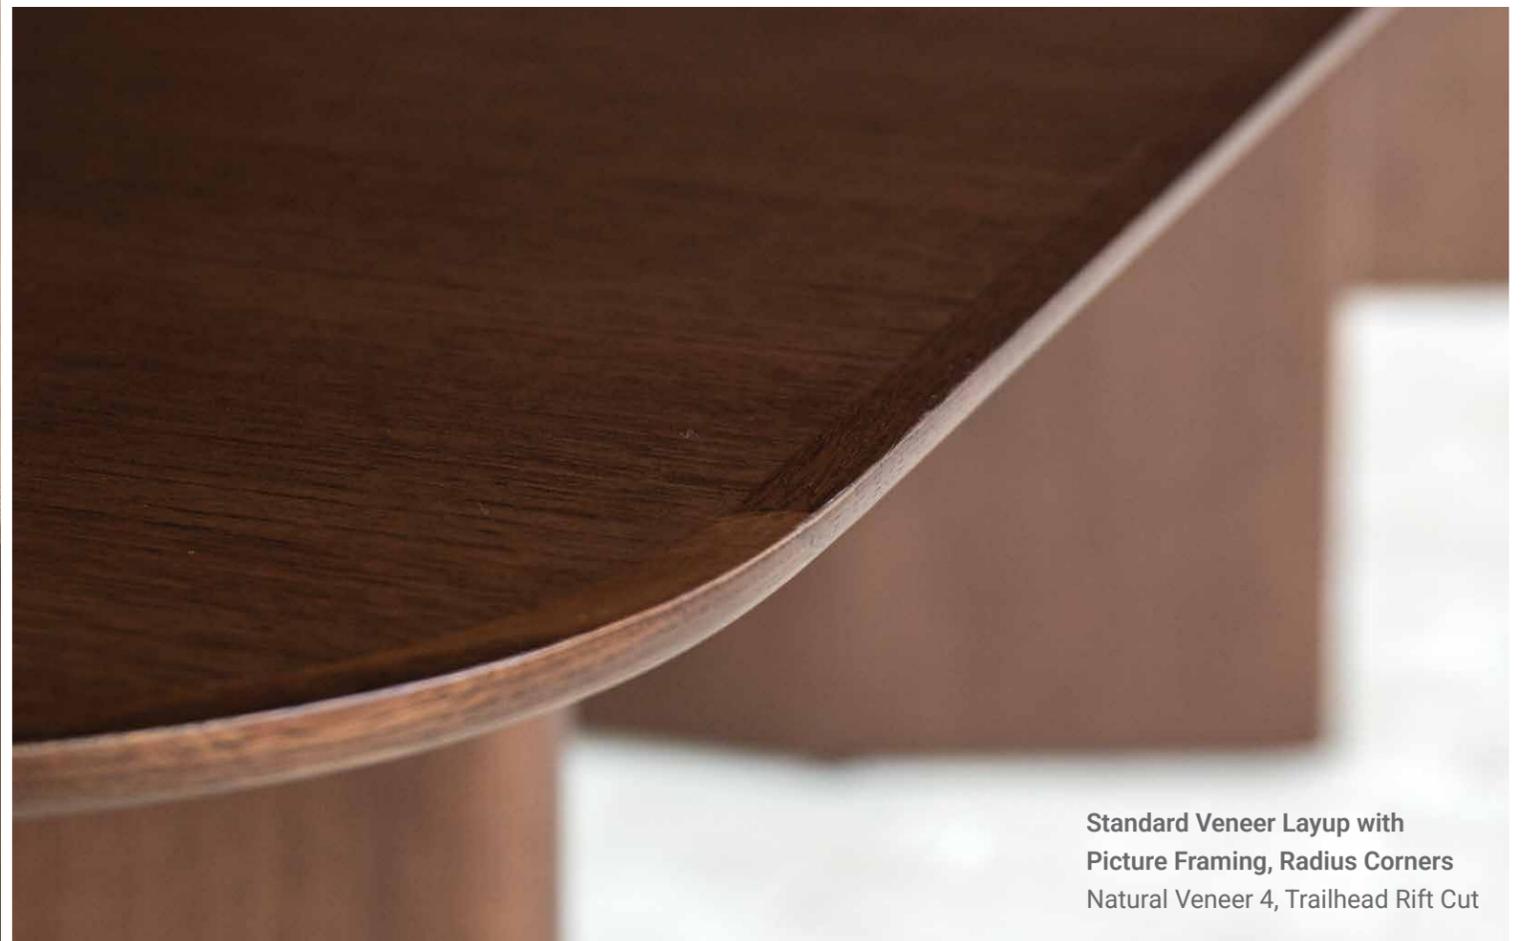

Built with the highest level of craftsmanship and care, each piece in the Figure family conveys a deep respect for natural wood. As a standard, our craftspeople hand-select veneers for a consistent grain pattern across not only each individual piece, but across complete settings. Artisan details, such as the reverse diamond veneer layups and picture-framed tabletops, add a custom feel.

a material dialogue

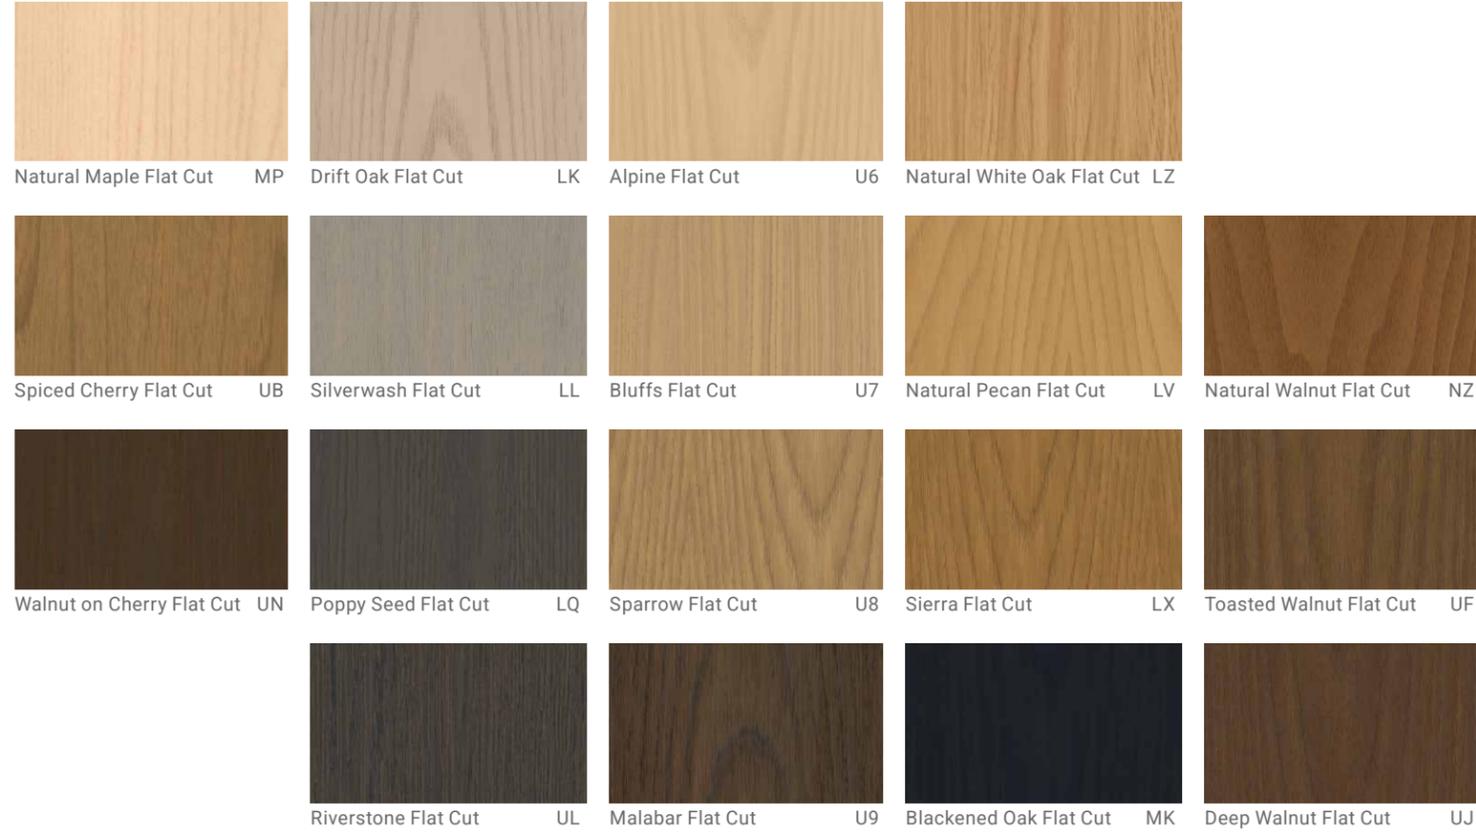

With wood materiality at the core of Figure's identity, Teknion's portfolio of wood veneers was redeveloped to highlight the natural beauty and richness of the material. The resulting palette prioritizes consistency, material blending, and design harmony, while maintaining an appreciation of wood's organic origins. The refreshed tones blend easily throughout a space, encouraging a layered material mix.

The 41 finishes on offer across Natural Veneer 4 (rift cut), Natural Veneer 2/3 (flat cut), and Rustic Oak Veneer categories use a variety of wood species — oak, walnut, maple, and cherry — each of which brings its own unique character. The wide spectrum of stain colorations is standardized with a consistent 10-degree sheen that ensures trueness of tone, and a universal open-pore finish that enhances the tactile experience of the material.

storage with style

Extending Figure's fusion of aesthetics and functionality, the collection's sideboards adopt a residential look and feel, while delivering on the needs of a corporate meeting space. Bookend styling with smaller end doors adds distinct character. The option to top the piece with an elevated glass or engineered slab solid surface furthers the material story.

power integration with intention

As with all else, Figure takes a considered approach to essential technology needs. Integrated electrical and data modules are fit with subtlety and convenience as top-of-mind, and were developed as a foundational element of the tables' design.

Edge power modules are thoughtfully design-matched with radiused corners and contoured cutouts that allow them to nestle into the tabletop. USB ports are fitted into the signature Bullnose Cove edge with an essentialist approach: Easily accessible, yet only as visible as needed. Access doors for cable routing integrate seamlessly into table bases, both visually and functionally.
